GEORGE ADAMS.

GEORGE ADAMS, the senior partner of this firm, died Oct. 4, 1865, at his residence in This is the first issue of the Boston Directory since his decease. As he was for so considerable a portion of his life wholly engaged in the publication of this and other similar works, it is fitting that some memorial of him should be placed in these pages. More than this, his was one of the representative characters of New-England energy and enterprise; and as such, his example may have its uses, and they may be valuable ones, to those who come

He was born in Boston, Jan. 10, 1807; and his parents were the descendants, in the fourth generation, of Francis Adams of Kingston, who came from England in 1692. Mr. Adams left Boston in 1811, went to Carver, and lived in the vicinity until 1823. He then returned to Boston, and was employed as a clerk until 1826. He then went to Plymouth, and there engaged in business as a hatter, and finally returned again to Boston, and carried on the same business from 1835 to 1846. At this time he commenced the publication of the Boston Directory, continuing it until about the time of his decease. He was not confined to the limits of Boston alone: he published Directories generally for all this portion of the Union. Being a member of the New-England Historic-Genealogical Society, he took a general interest in its proceedings, and, by the assistance of a son, collected and published a genealogical history of the Adams Family. He was employed by the city government of Boston in collecting the births, in numbering the streets, in taking the Census of the city for 1850, 1855, and 1865, also in superintending some portion of the United-States Census in 1850 and in 1860.

The principal publications in which he was engaged were the Boston Directory, New-England Directory, New-York State Directory, Registers of Massachusetts, Maine, and Rhode Island, and Directories for Providence, R. I., Albany and Troy, N. Y., and most of the cities in Massachusetts. Of these, the Boston Directory was his especial pride; and he spared no pains in making it and keeping it what he believed it to be, — the best Directory in the United

So much for the skeleton of his life; but these main facts show little the character of the What was he? this is the question to be answered of every man who claims any attention of posterity.

As a business-man he was prompt and energetic. Of a small frame, he had the active nervous temperament which was continually on the alert for success. Being emphatically a worker himself, he inspired activity and vigilance in all about him. He did not demand this, he acted as though he expected it, and all who came in contact with him yielded a willing compliance to the spirit of the master.

He was a democrat in principle and habit. No one in his employment felt that Mr. Adams was an aristocrat, or felt that he assumed any position or feeling of superiority. He was a man himself, and conceded to all others that they were men, and paid that respect to their feelings and to their opinions which a high-minded and generous man should pay to the feelings and opinions of others. Of all those who were brought into business-relations with him, none can say that he dealt unjustly by them; and all will testify that he was strictly an honest and upright man.

But his strongest characteristic was, to those who understood him, his real organizing genius in the line of pursuit adopted by him. He was never confined to old notions, but continually sought new and more convenient methods of accomplishing the same results. When his connection with the Boston Directory commenced, it was comparatively a simple publication. There were a thousand little appointments that must be attended to in improving the work; to all these particulars he showed a continual attention for the purpose of making something novel, useful, and attractive. He may be said to have created the system of Directory publishing now carried on so successfully in New England and in the country. The business public could scarcely get along without his work; and this fact would be materially felt, if they were once deprived of its daily convenience.

His religious sentiments were of the rationalistic school. Being no student of theology he had but little interest in the traditional theology of the day. His religion was that of Parker and of Nature. As a life long friend and follower of Parker, he looked upon the pulpit as possessing virtue only so long as it taught men the art of living according to the dictates of an enlightened conscience.

In politics he was essentially a radical. He was born such, and never could have been any thing different. His was not so much a logical intellect as one of intuition and perception. His conclusions came to him; he never reasoned himself up to them. Hence conservatism could be to him only an abomination. Of course he was deeply interested on the side of progress. When Garrison first came into the field, Mr. Adams swore allegiance to his banner, and faithfully followed that allegiance to his grave. He respected law when it was in harmony with the principles of abstract justice: if not so in his opinion, he was earnest for its repeal. But the commands of law for the preservation of the elements of republican liberty had much less weight upon his mind, than his own sense of right and wrong. In public matters, his instincts triumphed over his reason; and he relied far more upon the instincts of humanity for the preservation of American liberty, than upon the laws of the Legislature and the decisions of the Courts.

Upon the question of temperance, he was always found upon the side of reform. He hated this great social evil with a holy hatred, and lent his influence, as far as it went, to eradicating it.

There was one marked characteristic in his social life which all felt who came within the sphere of its influence, and that was his cheerfulness of disposition. He was always ready for a jest which would provoke a smile, and put his company in the best of humor: his jests never left a sting behind. All who enjoyed his hospitality felt themselves at home, and found in their host a companion also. Notwithstanding a weakly constitution, and much suffering from ill health, he extracted sweetness out of all occasions and circumstances.

His love of Nature was one of his great characteristics. We think it was a stronger love than that for society. With his son or dog for a companion, he has spent many a day wandering over the hills and through the valleys of his locality. He knew how to study the instructions that the wild flowers of the woods and the grasses of the field give to the mind of the intelligent and feeling man. Not being sentimental, he felt nature as a man of reason would, and was made the better for the reflections her beauties called into being. He would see far more than most men in the strength of the oak, in the symmetry of the pine, and the beauty of the flowers; all appealed to, and made more elevated, the poetical temperament with which he was endowed.

Perhaps we could not close this notice more appropriately than by quoting the following tribute to his memory, contributed to "The Advertiser" of this city by his personal friend,

"We recorded a few days ago the death of Mr. George Adams, the publisher of the Boston and other New-England Directories. He was a marked character, and a striking instance of sturdy New-England energy, intelligence, and public spirit. To these qualities, not uncommon, we may fairly boast, among our citizens, he added what is more rarely found, —a wise, intelligent, and most unselfish interest in, and the most self-sacrificing devotion to, the great vital questions of the day. Like a true son of the soil, he never forgot the State in his own interests. The graduate only of our common schools, he made his own way into business, carving out, like most Yankees, his own career. When, in middle life, a change of circumstances, and growing dislike for the special manufacture in which he was engaged, made him turn to other channels of employment, he may be said to have created the system of Directories, which he extended over this whole section of the Union; with rare enterprise and consummate skill, systematizing the whole business, till it ministered, in a most unexpected degree, to the convenience of the whole North as well as to his own profit. Like HARNDEN, the creator of the American system of Expresses, Mr. Adams may be considered in this light a creator.

"But his interest in the great moral and political questions, especially those called reformed questions, a liberal theology, antislavery, and temperance, and the rest, gave him, it may be questions, a neeral theology, antistavery, and temperatice, and the least governorments truly said, a liberal education. In these movements, his tireless devotion, clear insight, and fearless spirit, both of thought and action, placed him in the van. In times when the assertion of unpopular opinions cost every thing, he was the outspoken supporter, and close, personal riend of Theodore Parker, and one of the earliest and most unflinching of Mr. Garrison's adherents. The quiet energy of his business-character became in these moments a calm, unostentatious fidelity to principle, and to the immediate duty of the hour.

"With the nicest sense of honesty and justice; beloved by a worthy circle; devoted to the noblest ideas; doing his full share in all that ministers to the highest welfare of society; broadly tolerant, yet not yielding his real convictions to any weak or false idea of toleration; hopeful yet vigilant on public questions; with that rare union of the gentlest tenderness in private life and the sternest assertion of his own principles, we may point to him as one of those characters that do honor to our civilization and institutions, a self-made, high-toned, unselfish, useful, and throughly honest man, earnestly striving to improve his age, and to live for his fellow-men."

ESTABLISHED, 1845,

Is one of the oldest institutions of the kind in America, having been chartered in the year 1841, and commenced business in May, 1845.

During the twenty-one years of its existence, it has issued policies upon the lives of more than thirty-six thousand persons, and has paid in losses $3,500,000 to the families and representatives of those who have deceased while members of the Company.

Special care in the selection of its risks, strict economy, and a safe and judicious investment of its funds, emphatically characterize the management of this Company.

Policies may be secured for One Year, Seven Years, or for Life, and made payable at death, or on the party attaining a specified age. Premiums may be paid annually, semi-annually, or quarterly, to continue during the existence of the policy, or terminable on the payment of ten years' premiums.

This Company offers liberal assistance in the payment of premiums by allowing credit for a portion thereof, by which persons are enabled to secure a much larger amount of insurance than can be obtained for the same expenditure in an all-cash Company.

Ten-Year Non-Forfeiture Policies.

This Company originated and was the first to bring before the public the Ten-Year Non-Forfeiture Plan, which has so fully commended itself to the judgment of thinking men, that it has become the most popular mode of assurance; and is rapidly superseding the old method of life-long payment. It has received the unqualified approval of the best business men of the land, large numbers of whom have taken out policies under it simply as an investment.

By the Table on which this class of Policies is based, a person incurs no risk in taking out a policy. Insuring to-day for $10,000, if he dies to-morrow, the $10,000 immediately becomes a claim; and if he lives ten years, and makes ten annual payments, his policy is paid up—nothing more to pay, and still his dividends CONTINUE, making

His Life Policy a Source of Income to him while living.

The only argument of weight offered against Life Insurance is, that a party might pay in for a number of years, and then, by inadvertence, inability, &c., not be able to continue paying, thereby losing all he had paid. The "Yew-York Life" has obviated this objection by its

TEN-YEAR NON-FORFEITURE PLAN.

A party, by this table, after the second year,

Cannot Forfeit any part of what has been paid in.

Thus, if one insuring by this plan for $10,000, discontinues after the second year, he is entitled to a PAID UP POLICY, according to the number of years paid in; viz.,

Second year, two-tenths of $10,000 (amount insured), amounting to $2,000, with dividend on same for life.

Third year, three-tenths of	10		H H	3,000,	46	"	**
Fourth year, four-tenths of		44	"	4,000,	11		44
Fifth year, five-tenths of	ti .	- 0		5,000,	a	0.	- 44

And so on, until the tenth annual payment, WHEN ALL IS PAID, and DIVIDENDS STILL CONTINUE DURING THE LIFE-TIME OF THE ASSURED.

This feature, among others, has given to this Company a success unparalleled in the history of Life Insurance.

ENDOWMENT-ASSUBANCE POLICIES.

These policies are coming into general request. As a sure and profitable investment for one's declining years, they deserve the attention of all. The sum secured by an ordinary life-policy becomes available upon the death of the assured; on the Endowment-plan the amount is received by the assured himself upon his attaining a specified age, while full provision is made for death occurring prior thereto.

ENDOWMENT-ASSURANCE BY TEN PAYMENTS, NON-FORFEITABLE.

A new table has been prepared, by which the premiums can all be paid in ten years, and the non-forfeiture benefit also secured. The dividends of return-premiums will be apportioned from the surplus arising from this class of risks, and will be computed upon the ordinary life-table rates, and continued during the existence of the policy.

From the New York Independent, Feb. 15, 1866, (Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's Paper.)

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—In another column will be found the 21st Annual Report of the above company. It will be read by its friends and the public with much interest and satisfaction. Its business during the past year has been eminently prosperous. The report shows that during that period 5,13s new policies have been issued, hasuring $16,324,888; and that its premiums in 1865 exceeded $2,000,000. Such has been its success that the trustees have been enabled to declare a dividend (return premiums) of 50 per cent; and in March next they will redeem in cash all dividends up to 1865. This early redemption of the scrip is equal to an extra cash dividend of seven per cent.

Year after year, under careful and prudent management, this company advances in prosperity; and its present assets exceed $5,000,000. It is a noticeable fact, which suggests powerfully the vast importance of life insurance to families, that during the existence of this company it has paid to the widows and orphans of its members (for it is a parely MUTUAL company, and ALL its profits belong to its members — the insured) no less a sum than $3,500,000. Who can measure the extent of the benefits it has thus conferred! Last year we took occasion to remark that "we knew of no company by which the interest of the policy-holders are better cared for than in the New York Life Insurance Company," and their present report confirms our good opinion.
